Kuchiuchi

Death rate high for Mainichi employees
China boom helps: Tokyo home sales
Is a China-free diet possible in Japan?
Rugby, MRAs hollowing out
Shukan Pest Watcher
For Fukuoka justice overますます's future: Ministry squabbles, overshadowing collision
Love hotel target women
Softbank discounts for Koreans

Commentary
Japan needs to be "proactive" diplomatic player
Pros and cons of online matchmaking
Debate on immigration needed
"Yasukuni" director feels heat
Obesity
Lack of sleep tied to child obesity

Features
Japan's love affair with all that blooms
"Kakon," director feels heat on Japanese struggle in Foreign Legion

Newsmakers
A life in the day of a cloven
Once upon a time Square: "All in a night's work for Eko, Koike, Kidman having a big year

New Products
Karakuri mic for MP3 players
Logi, GRAM, Legos
Wireless access point for gaming devices
CGL, KAGAPH, Connea
Digital cymbals
C-30, Roland

Executive Impact
Discreet elegance
Okabe Inc, Akiti Japan Ltd
A world of culinary delights
Kato Housewares, Global Dining, Inc.
Redefining the hotel business
Lotte Hotel, Stoweed Hotels Japan Co

Book Kitchen
One version of the American dream
Jade in San Francisco
For hungry gourmets, avid cooks and food industry devotees
Japanese pub culture
Re-examining history yet again
Hem-Maro Polo Bridge to Pearl Harbor

OSAKA — The former Osaka University of Foreign Studies received an endowment from several corporations to support a unique set of courses in the fields of the humanities and the social sciences. Students can receive academic credit for their coursework.

The first endowment course, Analysis of Current International Events, which includes guest lectures by top journalists, was established in 2004 with funding from the Yomiuri newspaper. This course has been and still is very popular with students. Since 2004 even more corporations have decided to help fund course programs.

When Osaka University of Foreign Studies merged with and became part of Osaka University in October 2007, it was running seven endowment courses supported by five different corporations. In the 2008-2009 school year, three new courses will be added, and the total will be 10 courses endowed by seven corporations.

One unique and interesting course is "Introduction to International Careers," organized by Mainichi Communications Inc. (http://www.nyukaku.mynavi.jp) and taught by two energetic and bright women, Katy Hirochi, director of H&K Global Connections (http://www.hkgc.jp/en) and Harumi Hotta, director of Business-Paradigm (http://www.business-paradigm.com/home.html). They work on the front line in business on a daily basis and can bring the hottest information about their most recent experiences to classroom. They serve as a bridge between the business world and the university.

By Yone Sugita

Katy Hirochi, left, and Harumi Hotta

"Personal Branding" is a rather special and interesting concept. How did you come up with this idea for your marketing strategy? Is it suitable for "group-oriented" Japanese people?

Sugita: "Personal Branding" is a rather special and interesting concept. How did you come up with this idea for your marketing strategy? Is it suitable for "group-oriented" Japanese people?

Horiuchi: Personal Branding is marketing activity based on yourself, not on your company name or on the community to which you belong. Through Personal Branding, you tell your story about your own strengths and skills together with your personal values. The ultimate goal is to let your name come associated with a "positive image" by your target market. For example, Steve Jobs, Michael Jordan, Ryoko Yawara (a Olympic judo gold medalist) are some examples of successful cases.

Personal Branding is popular in the U.S., but still new in Japan. Personal Branding can be applied to various types of business, but we are focusing on small-to-mid sized companies in the service sector including in design. Students or professionals who are seeking new jobs can also utilize Personal Branding to leverage their value. That is why we decided to share our knowledge with students at Osaka University. We witnessed companies’ turn-around such as restructuring and bankruptcies while we worked for them. We felt that the company life cycle has been getting shorter, and that if the company’s CEO was changed, the company’s strategy and services were also changed.

Since IT is a global phenomenon, good products can be easily copied and it has been getting difficult to "differentiate" only through products and services. Therefore, we concluded that the real differentiator for the new era will be "people" and "Personal Branding." Individuals have their own unique "strength" and "personality" and they are all different. We believe that if you leverage yourself, you can better and more easily differentiate your product or service.

It is a decidedly suitable concept for Japanese people, because Japanese people tend to avoid standing out and tend not to disclose the CEO’s profile effectively. Now that Asian companies are catching up with Japanese technology, it will be critical to differentiate by leveraging the Personal Brand.

Sugita: Business-Paradigm specializes in European MBA consulting and is managed by two Japanese women. Please tell us a little bit about your company and the services you offer.

Horiuchi: There are many students who want to work and develop their skills in the field of international careers. We decided to specialize in international careers, and our goal is to support students who want to study or work overseas.

Sugita: We produce gyoza in Japan using ingredients made in Japan. What do you think about food safety?

Party is an enemy of Japan. I think this is a very serious and big problem.

By Yone Sugita

We produce gyoza in Japan using ingredients made in Japan. What do you think about food safety?

Party is an enemy of Japan. I think this is a very serious and big problem.
Own Your Own Home
Tokyo
We can show you appropriate apartment & house in TOKYO www.kimita.co.jp/en

JapanForum.com
Find out about living in Japan and talk to people who live in Tokyo.

Japan Business News
Get major business news of Japanese companies.
www.teikoku.com

Japan Personals
International Japanese Dating Site. Find Love. Join 100% Free Now!
www.JapanCupid.com

Why Traditional MBA?
Save money & time. Opt for an online MBA by U21Global.
www.u21global.edu.sg
Two gung-ho career women connect...